OVERVIEW

UX/UI designer and project manager bridging the gap between visual design, front-end development, and product management. I thrive in leading small, remote engineering teams to build SaaS platforms and Chrome extensions from the ground up. I work best in async, cross-time zone setups, heavily relying on modern AI tools to ship clean, scalable products fast.

EXPERIENCE

SENIOR UX/UI ENGINEER & PROJECT MANAGER

FlowChat | Remote | 2026 - Present

- ➜ Led a fully remote team of 4 engineers to build and scale a SaaS platform and its companion Chrome extension.
- ➜ Ran the day-to-day product management entirely async using GitHub and Jira so the team could stay focused on writing code.
- ➜ Designed the complete UI/UX architecture from scratch and applied the core brand identity across the product.
- ➜ Engineered the platform to be fully white-labeled, giving B2B clients the ability to spin up their own custom-branded versions of the UI.
- ➜ Sat down with users to figure out what they actually needed, then turned that feedback into Notion roadmaps and technical sprints.
- ➜ Jumped in and wrote code for the tougher front-end pieces, like building a custom drag-and-drop workflow pipeline.
- ➜ Personally tested and QA'd major extension updates before pushing them live to make sure they didn't break in production.

FOUNDER & LEAD UX/UI ENGINEER

Stilt Code | Remote | 2026 - Present

- ➜ Run my own independent software studio to design, build, and launch custom Manifest V3 Chrome extensions end-to-end.
- ➜ Shipped Medical Code Copilot (complete with a custom 15-day free trial system) and Taylor Tax directly to the Chrome Web Store.
- ➜ Sped up development cycles by deeply integrating AI tools like Google Antigravity, Claude, and local LLMs into my daily routine.
- ➜ Wrote GitHub Actions to automate the tedious parts of the release cycle, like packaging files and handling store deployments.

Transglobal Comunicação e Publicidade, Lda | Lisbon, Portugal | 2005 - 2026

- ➜ Stepped in to write front-end code (HTML, CSS, JS) and managed the web hosting servers for our clients.
